As tickets go on sale for Greenwich+Docklands International Festival (GDIF), Actors Touring Company (ATC) announces the creative team for one of this year's festival highlights, FAMILY TREE by Mojisola Adebayo, in a outdoor performance of this work-in-development, created especially for Festival.Org.

Directed by ATC's Artistic Director Matthew Xia, this site-responsive outdoor production is designed by Sandra Falase (J'Ouvert, Sonia Friedman Prods., Romeo and Juliet – Orange Tree), with music by Fran Rivers (Evening Standard Future Theatre Fund Award winner, 2021; Othello, NYT) and movement by Vicki Igbokwe (founder and creative director of Uchenna Dance, Mass Movement Choreographer, Olympic & Paralympic Ceremonies).

Family Tree takes as its inspiration the story of Henrietta Lacks, an African American woman, whose cells were harvested and cultivated without her consent after her death from cervical cancer in the 1950s. The so-called HeLa cells have been vital to studying disease and have even contributed to the development of the COVID-19 vaccines. Using the Lacks story as a springboard, the work is a powerful exploration around the themes of ethics in healthcare, racism, the environment and a woman's right to autonomy over her own body.

This outdoor staging of Family Tree is presented by ATC, FESTIVAL.ORG and Young Vic from the co-commission by ATC and Young Vic, for 7 performances only, as part of the development process for a full theatre run in 2022.

Actors Touring Company Artistic Director MATTHEW XIA says:

"Mojisola Adebayo has created a play which responds to the present moment whilst holding historical malpractice to account. It's fearless, brutally honest, at turns hilarious, and ultimately transformative. This ritualistic celebration is our way of uplifting, remembering, and learning from these women who were used in the name of medical advancement."

ACTORS TOURING COMPANY (ATC) creates dialogue between Britain and the rest of the world – and between the intersecting cultures within our country. It is the leading UK theatre company committed to producing plays that come from beyond our shores.

We are passionate about giving voice to the 'outsider within' – the cross-cultural nations within our own nation. We tour our plays right across Britain: creating, developing and sustaining a dialogue between those deemed 'the other' and UK audiences. In the last few years, we have produced first English language productions of plays from Iran, Norway, the US, Germany, Austria, Russia - bringing international voices to school and village halls, studio theatres and main houses: from Barcelona to Glasgow, from Hong Kong to Scarborough. Signature productions include: The Brothers Size, Amsterdam, the ATC debut of Artistic Director Matthew Xia, and Dear Tomorrow – letters of hope commissioned from writers around the globe.

ATC will co-produce the European premiere of Rice by Michele Lee, directed by Matthew Xia, with the Orange Tree Theatre in October this year.

FESTIVAL.ORG is one of the UK's most ambitious and prolific outdoor arts producing organisations. We set out to radically raise the ambition, quality and diversity of outdoor performance produced in the UK.

Beyond our flagship annual festival Greenwich+Docklands International Festival, we manage the nationwide Global Streets network and are a founding partner of the Without Walls and Stomping Ground consortia.

FESTIVAL.ORG plays a distinctive, strategic role within the wider outdoor arts sector by devising and producing large-scale work (including ceremony-scale spectacle), working with culturally diverse artists, introducing new artists into the outdoors who might previously have worked in building-based contexts, pioneering new approaches to access and audience engagement and developing new outdoor work with D/deaf and disabled artists.

Produced by FESTIVAL.ORG, GREENWICH+DOCKLANDS INTERNATIONAL FESTIVAL (GDIF) is London's free, annual outdoor theatre and performing arts festival. Taking place from 27 August – 11 September 2021 across Greenwich, East London, Thamesmead and the City of London, GDIF is committed to co-creating, commissioning and presenting outdoor productions, which tell compelling stories in spectacular style, whilst bringing Londoners together.

GDIF 2020 saw over 150 live events take place safely to a socially distanced audience of over 20,000, and 55,000 reached digitally with streamed content and engagement projects. GDIF 2020's productions and commissions responded to the pandemic and events such as the Black Lives Matter movement, offering spaces for reflection, active participation, and celebration.

GDIF forms part of the Royal Greenwich Festivals, and is the flagship annual event produced by FESTIVAL.ORG.
